

December 8, 2017

1,000 days without Jamie.....

Today, Friday 8th December 2017 marks 1,000 days since we lost Jamie.

Each one of those days has brought with it pain and heartbreak at some point and we know that the next 1,000 days will no doubt be equally hard. It's so very difficult to explain how we feel, but we know that like us, many of you (friends and family) still find it hard to accept that Jamie, the loveable cheeky chatterbox, is no longer here.

I once heard it said that "A person doesn't die when they live on the lips of the living" and that's why you'll often hear us talking about Jamie and keeping his memory alive. We hope you are able to do the same.

Jamie will be forever young as the rest of us grow old, but he will never be forgotten.

Thank you all for your continued love and support.

The photo here is one of our particular favourites (if not of the greatest quality) and was taken at Chiquitos Restaurant in Hull in August 2014.

x Sleep Tight, Little Man x

